Loto-Québec inaugurates Kinzo Hall, a new collective and dynamic game center on October 18, 2010

October 19, 2010

Montréal, Canada – The new Loto-Québec Kinzo game center opened its doors on October 8, 2010. Kinzo is played in a unique venue, highlighted by multimedia animation on screens and ceiling displays, and accompanied by thrilling sound effects, controlled by CIARATECH multimedia servers. All of that constitutes a very exciting and technological game ensemble. During the inauguration, the spokesperson Joël Legendre invited by Loto-Québec, demonstrated each of the Kinzo game functionalities. The four hundred people invited to the evening celebration had only praises for this suspense-filled game. Keep in mind that the Kinzo Hall gives all its profits to non-profit charitable organizations. Kinzo Hall is an initiative of La Société des Bingos du Québec, a division of Loto-Québec. CIARATECH is proud to contribute to the success of the new Kinzo game and we do hope that many other Kinzo Halls will be added to this first game center.

About SBQ (La Société des Bingos du Québec)

Created in 1997, the SBQ received a mandate to market collective games and particularly network bingo to support non-profit charitable organizations that chose bingo as a source of funding.

The SBQ has more than 35 employees who manage the network and ensure the integrity of the bingo draws. In the last 12 years, nearly 120 million dollars have been paid out to some 1,000 bingo-licensed non-profit charitable organizations throughout Québec, which represents an average annual contribution of 10 million dollars to the community.
